5.0 ADOPTION OF THE MINUTES FROM THE MARCH 1, 2019 GENERAL ANNUAL MEETING

Michel Boudreault quickly reviews the main items from the minutes.

Precision to item 11.0 Nomination of an auditor: It is specified that the Board made the decision to work with KPMG firm rather than with BDO. Holstein Canada was changing auditing firms and we accepted to do the same to facilitate the auditing process.

It is specified that in the case of discrepancies between the on-screen documents and the annual report, it is the annual report that shall always prevail.

It is asked whether there are any questions. No questions.

There is a call to vote.

6.0 OLD BUSINESS FROM PREVIOUS MINUTES

Michel Boudreault explains that the request to make changes to our Bylaws was approved by the Minister of Agriculture and received in September 2019.

Michel Boudreault reads out the resolutions follow-up from the March 1, 2019 minutes.

Resolution #1

The Toronto Royal is asked to ensure that the scouring of the spaces provided to exhibitors be done completely prior to their arrival onsite. The reasons behind this request being to avoid transmission of diseases, offer better visibility to visitors strolling through the breeders' exhibitions throughout the week, and to preserve the Royal's brand image when it comes to international visitors.

Furthermore, it is asked that there be a better logistic for when Royal exhibitors arrive, including providing the animals with a place to go after hours of transport. It is also asked that the exhibitors travelling for many hours with their animals be treated as a priority upon their arrival, allowing their subjects to rest before passing in front of the judges.

Follow-up

- The follow-up was done with the Toronto Royal's Dairy Committee.
- Actions were taken to resolve the issues.
- According to the 2019 exhibitors, the situation has greatly improved and has returned to normal.

Resolution #2

In order to have evaluations that are reliable and representative of the Bedford/St-Hyacinthe Ayrshire Club's reality, it is asked that the association require the various stakeholders, such as the CQRL, Valacta, and the Fédération des producteurs de lait du Québec, to use the data collected on the farms for all genetic evaluations. The Bedford/St-Hyacinthe Ayrshire Club asks the Ayrshire association of Quebec to follow up with the Ayrshire association of Canada.

Follow-up

- Representations have been done with the Canadian Dairy Network (Lactanet).
- It's the Industry Standards Committee that manages the file and the breed associations are represented on this committee.
- Before being able to use the data collected by robots in the calculation of genetic evaluations, the tool must be accredited by the International Committee for Animal Recording (ICAR).
- The responsibility of accreditation belongs to the robot supplier.
- Currently none of the robots are accredited, regardless of the supplier and regardless of the country.

It is asked whether there are any questions. No questions.

7.0 PRESIDENT REPORT

In Mary Ellen Trueman's absence, Eleanor Robinson reads the report presented on page 14 of the annual report.

It is asked whether there are any questions. No questions.

9.0 BREED IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE REPORT

Andrew Shufelt presents the Breed Improvement Committee report, available on page 17 of the annual report.

It is asked whether there are any questions.

Mrs. Keesha Ness asks why no emphasis is being placed on the fact that fat is more lucrative than protein. Mr. Shufelt explains that these changes happen gradually and that he will retain this item for future discussion.

Mario Lacerte asks what sets the direction the committee takes in terms of sire selection. Thierry Laberge from Ciaq mentions that they are aware that the A2A2 type is becoming more and more significant. If, among the selected sires, there are some A2A2 animals, they will be available to the breeders. He mentions that the number of genomic tests has diminished and requires us to be more active by testing a larger number of animals. The more tests we'll have, the more data we'll have, the more choice we'll have. He specifies that it is also important that the tests be sent to his attention, because when the tests are done via the Ciaq, it allows them to collect and store the results in their database and obtain additional data.

Brian Van Doormaal mentions that it is important to specify that A2A2 milk does not earn more for the moment. Maybe in the future, but no one really knows. Lactanet offers a service of data on the animals via their website. Several simulations can be done based on various criteria. As such, you can obtain breeding suggestions to help you choose your sires and dams.

Claude Larocque: why remove the persistency trait? Andrew: when we increased the percentage of this trait, Brian Van Doormaal informed us that the trait had very little heritability. In light of this information, we modified the percentages of certain traits and removed persistency.

Grant Roy: what impact could diminishing the percentage of the mastitis resistance trait and increasing milking speed have? Brian Van Doormaal shares the percentages in terms of mastitis resistance, milking speed, and temperament. He explains the impact and correlation between mastitis resistance and milking speed, and goes on to say that these 2 traits must appear together in the LPI formula in order to see improvement.

Andrew Shufelt asks Mr. Van Doormaal if the new formula appears to be well composed. Mr. Van Doormaal explains that he will need to perform an analysis before pronouncing himself on the matter. Following his analysis, he will make recommendations to the committee. From there, the GEB (Genetic Evaluation Board) will need to approve the new formula.

Richard Lagacé / Jean-Marc Daigle

moves and seconds the Breed Improvement Committee report as presented.

Auditor's report.

Audited financial statements

Michel reads out a portion of the independent auditor's report (first 3 paragraphs).

Reading of revenues and expenses. We need to expand our sources of revenue, because a significant portion (42%) comes from registrations and transfers.

The reimbursements to the provincial clubs have been done, with the exception of the West Club. We are collaborating with them, looking for ways to invest this money in a project adapted to their reality.

Michel mentions that an amount of $11,288 had to be withdrawn from the assets. This amount was supposed to be reimbursed by the CLGA (Canadian Livestock Genetic Association) following our claim requests for promoting the breed internationally. However, the amount could not be reimbursed. Going forward, our claim requests will be considered surplus revenue and will be processed only once the reimbursements have been received.

It is asked whether there are any questions.

Resolution # 2

Show Committee

- Whereas the animal shows and fairs represent a showcase for the breed's promotion;
- Whereas the high costs that the fairs entail, both for the breeders and for the association;
- Whereas exhibitors make every effort to offer a high-quality show;

It is requested that the employee from the Société Ayrshire du Québec or Ayrshire Canada who is present at the exhibitions share the show results live, to inform members and future buyers interested in the breed. It is therefore important that the AssistExpo software application be filled in as the show unfolds. In addition, it is suggested that a Facebook post be published at the beginning of the day to share the link to these results, and that some photos be added at the end of the fair to show the animals.

Alexandre Beauchemin/ Neil Kittle moves and seconds the resolution as presented.

There is a call to vote.

Appalaches Ayshire Club

- Whereas breeders are now increasingly working with applications and software;
- Whereas it is increasingly difficult to be profitable as an association;

Ayrshire Canada is asked to assess breeders' interest in the possibility of printing communications sent by the Association themselves (registration, invoices, account statement, etc.). The Association is also asked to assess the economic impact that these changes may have.

Joannie Bilodeau / Anthony Bilodeau moves and seconds the resolution as presented.
